Welcoming Our Destination: The New Llano High School

A new destination came in '71.
That building would a junior high become.

High schoolers looked toward a much cooler place

Where awaited A/C and more learning space.

It's the way of things here in this world today:

We take what we can and throw the rest away.

Time passes. We grow, and we seek something more.

We take what we can, and we walk out the door.

Then, as now, we build something new,

Something bigger and better, with windows, too!

The year 2000 brings windows open wide.

We can no longer in these buildings hide.

I hope that new light brings new vision clear.

I pray we learn the value of our presence here.

Through these windows our destiny sings.

May we all welcome what our future brings.

MISS LHS

Valedictorian

Valedictorian Address: Well, it is finally over! I believe it is safe to assume that we are all pretty happy about that. Parents and teachers, I would like to thank all of you for the help you have provided and the patience you have had in putting up with us. A little over four years ago, if I recall correctly, I was sitting at home contemplating my future as a high schooler. My older brother Beau, a soon-to-be senior, came up to me to offer some advice. He told me, "You had better look out. The second you set foot into that place all of my senior friends will come find little punks like you. You won't survive a day." I thanked him for his advice. That first day of high school, I was terrified. My brother had spent all summer convincing me that on this day, I would die. Several of my friends felt the same way. We spent those first harrowing hours sneaking in the shadows and hiding behind lockers, trash cans, anything behind which a scrawny 14-year-old could fit. Visions of swirlies danced in our heads. Nonetheless, I'm still alive. I guess that is really the purpose of high school. This place helps prepare us to face the future.

For example, Mr. Leifeste, a teacher of mine, once taught me an important lesson. We must all eat, but, unfortunately, many of us may well be strapped for cash in the next few years. He taught us a solution to financial woes: Let's say you are a hungry college student. You go to the local pizza establishment and sit down. A nice family of four comes in and has a leisurely dinner. They pay, get up, and leave. On their table is an uneaten slice of pepperoni pizza. . . THAT SLICE IS YOURS! Basically, his lesson was to take advantage of any good opportunity because you never know when another might arise. High school has also taught us that it is important to always be aware of your environment. Contemplate your surroundings and you will be able to avoid some serious obstacles.

Have you ever noticed how every single large building in this town has a billion pigeons that call it home? Except the high school? Have you ever noticed how when they serve fried "chicken" in the cafeteria, it is always so little and scrawny? I never did eat any of it. Now don't get mad, all I'm saying is that sometimes it is better to be safe than sorry. Along the same lines, it will be wise for us all to remember to expect the unexpected. Nothing in life ever turns out how you plan it. For example, your science teacher has your class watch a video called the "Private Life of Dolphins" right after lunch. The title of the video sounds innocent enough, and the teacher was very busy and did not get the opportunity to completely preview the video before showing it. Let me just say that the "Private Life of Dolphins" was, well, private! Expect the unexpected!

We should also all remember to not be overconfident in our judgements of other people. Our first impressions are likely to be wrong. Our freshman year, we had Mr. Kelso for geometry. He was one of our coolest math teachers, but his class operated on one principle: Mr. Kelso is always right. He was an ex-military man with a crew cut and a very strict demeanor. Naturally, we loved to tease him. We would goose step behind him down the hall to the classroom, give him a certain salute and yell out, "Sieg heil, mein Fuhrer!" Being naive freshmen, we thought to ourselves, "He doesn't have a clue what we are saying." We thought to ourselves, "Gee, what is he smirking evilly about?" We asked him, "So. . . Mr. Kelso. . . Do you speak German?" "Ja" "I think I'll sit down now!"

One last story before I quit and sit down. Some of you have expressed strong dislike about this place in which we live. Just keep in mind that Llano is not so bad. A while back, some friends and I went out and sat on the corner of Ford and Main late at night. We watched the trucks go by. We saw Vassar and Wix, then Wendel then Whitehead, then Methvin. . . then Vassar and Wix, then Wendel, then Whitehead. . . then Methvin. It was a perfect, cool autumn night and we were not shot, or kidnaped, or run over, and our parents did not need to worry about us. You cannot do such a thing just anywhere. This town is special in its own simple, relaxed way.

On a more serious note, it might not be a bad idea to remember some of these things and take them with us as we go our separate ways. Be kind, be friendly, and be careful about the choices that you make. Pay attention to your environment, take advantage of good opportunities, and recognize the needs of those around you.

In closing, on behalf of the class of 2001, I would like to express our appreciation to all of you for your unwavering support in helping us to reach this defining moment in our lives.

Don and Laura are an attractive young couple happily married for nine years. He is hearing, she is deaf. Don speaks and uses sign language to communicate with her and their 6-year-old deaf son, Adam. His family's deafness has never been an issue for Don—until a doctor says that Adam should have a cochlear implant—a tiny computer device that would be surgically inserted into his skull to enable the child to hear. A technological miracle? Not to Laura, who sees the device as a threat to deaf culture. In her eyes, the most "normal" thing for Adam is for her boy to remain deaf. To her, deafness is an honor, not a handicap. But Don becomes convinced that it's in Adam's "best interest" to become a "normal" child. The battle to help his son becomes an emotional journey of self-discovery that exposes hidden prejudices and threatens to shatter his family.

"Some things run deeper than science." Your love for our family proves this to be true. You survived the struggle of learning a new language, acting without movement, and expressing without words. This group of students is one of the most dedicated groups that has ever represented LHS. What an honor to win a District Championship in our house. The new auditorium's brilliance was only dimmed by the glowing power of this show. We will forever be THE ONE ACT PLAY. Nicole Smith

CHRISTMAS IS FOR KIDS-The DECA students along with many at LHS collected gifts and money, wrapped items, and distributed over $2000 to families.

A dinner, auction and performance benefit was held in honor of Riley Gene Pence, daughter of Cory and Denise Pence, on March 25, 2001. The amount of donated items, mass of people, and number of dollars at the event, led all to stand in amazement. The Llano community came out in full force for this family.

Sponsor's Final Thoughts

The year is ending with me just as excited about being the yearbook sponsor as I was at the beginning. Things have gone well due to the efforts of the yearbook staff members, the flexibility of the teachers, and the support of the administration. I hope that as you look through the pages of the 2001 Yearbook, you will be able to appreciate the hours that it took to take the pictures, design the pages, and prepare each shipment.

Rachael, Katherine, Michael, Robert, Genie, Ana, Beth, Krizel, Matt, Robin, Niki, deserve a round of applause for their work. I would like to especially thank Crystal for her tireless effort and for welcoming me into the yearbook world. This book was created with the intent of holding memories that will be as vivid tomorrow as they are today. LHS is a special place, and I hope that this book will enable you to carry your high school moments with you forever. I would like to give a special thanks to our rep. Cheryl and Mrs. Champion for leaving me no hidden problems or loose ends. I would also like to thank those faculty members who were as excited about each event as I was. This book will be special to me because it is my first one while for 88 of you, it will be special because it is your last one. I hope that you enjoy it always. THANKS TO...

Jil Holland and her husband snapped the basketball play-off pictures.

Travis Ward made our cover concept a reality with his artistic ability.

Laina Murray allowed us to borrow JV baseball photos.

Celieta Leifeste graciously shared band and graduation pictures.

MR. JARRETT'S THOUGHTS

I am increasingly proud of having the opportunity to be the principal at Llano High School. It is wonderful to be part of such a quality school system. Without a doubt, the LHS students are the best group of students with whom I have had the pleasure to work. The high expectations held by the parents and community members that make up Llano ISD make it possible for the administration and faculty to maintain an academic focus. You combine this with what I believe is the best faculty ever assembled and there is no doubt why LHS truly is a great place to learn.

Just as important, it is wonderful to have the chance to watch the LHS students grow and gain life skills and experiences through many extracurricular activities. Win, lose, or draw, it is exciting to see our students work so hard for a common goal in band, athletics, one act play or the many other activities that are offered.

It is my goal that the communities, parents, teachers, and students that form the Llano High School team will continue to produce well-rounded graduates that will lead happy, healthy, and productive lives. I consider it a great honor to be a member of this team.

Earl Jarrett-Principal, Llano High School

Editor's Final Thoughts

This has been a very wonderful and exciting year. I am glad to be the editor of such an awesome and unique book. I am very pleased with this yearbook and I hope you all will be too. I would like to thank the wonderful yearbook staff. They have all done a wonderful job and it would be impossible to do without you. Thank you Katherine, Rachael, Mike, Genie, Robert, Ana, Krizel, Beth, Niki, Robin, and Matt. I hope each one of you will enjoy this book as much as I have enjoyed creating it. In the years to come, I wish everyone will treasure this book full of memories. I think this is the best Llano High School Yearbook ever published.

COACH

MCCORMACK

Coach Mac has been with LHS for eleven years. He has many memories at LHS, but some of his favorite memories involve the students and faculty members he has worked with and coached. He has not just coached a football team that went to the playoff six consecutive years, but also taught excellent history lessons. He made friends with his players, assistant coaches, faculty, and all the wonderful support groups. Coach Mac said that his assistant coaches were the top of the line and could not ask for a better coaching staff. He also believes that he had the worlds greatest student assistants. LHS will never forget Coach Mac and his accomplishments in Llano.

Thank You For Your

Time Effort Attitude Character Honor Integrity Nobility Generosity

COACH KORNEGAY

Coach Kornegay will be greatly missed after seven years in Llano. He has been an outstanding coach, wonderful teacher, and great friend. Coach Kornegay's most memorable moment is setting the school record in football for most football playoff appearances in LHS history. We will miss you Coach Kornegay and wish you the best of luck next year in Orange Grove.

MR. HAWKINS

Mr. Hawkins has been a part of LHS for only one year and will be missed for his kindness. The "Hawkeye" showed spirit for LHS. He felt honored when he won the most spirited teacher in the first pep rally of the year. Not only was Mr. Hawkins fun to be around, but also became a friend to many. LHS will miss you.

MRS. HOLLINGER

Mrs. Hollinger came to LHS as a first year teacher and will be miss as a great team supporter and inspiration to many. She will always remember all the laughs she had in her classes. Mostly she enjoyed being a part of many pep rallies (Kiss band). LHS will cherish and appreciate your kindness and generosity.

MISS VARELA

Although Miss Varela has only been in Llano for two years, she has made an impact on many lives. Miss V. was a fabulous spanish teacher, fun and caring senior girls sponor, but most importantly an awesome friend. She will always smile when she recalls her first year because her fourth period class threw a surprise birthday party for her. Miss Varela, LHS wishes you good luck at Truett Theological Seminary. Remember you are a Llano Yellowjacket that will be truely missed.
